Sean Forbes, MBA - NVA Advisor

“Before you can start setting financial goals, you need to determine where you stand financially” - David Bach

Sean Forbes is a highly experienced Corporate Accountant with experience in multiple high tech industries including Telecom, Alternative Energy and Semiconductor Equipment Manufacturing. Sean has experience in various sized companies from over 1,000 employee manufacturers to small startups with less than 20 employees.

Sean earned his M.B.A. from Rivier College and his B.S. in Business Administration and Accounting from the University of New Hampshire.

Sean’s expertise lies in helping smaller companies achieve efficiency through process improvement and setting policies and procedures. He believes that investing time up front in systems and procedures will pay dividends in efficiency and timeliness down the line. As an example, Sean has taken the month end and quarter end closes of multiple companies from two to three weeks, down to less than 4 working days. The production of quicker and more accurate financial statements has led to improved decision making.

Sean resides with his wife, daughter and three sons in Manchester, New Hampshire.
